

Asia Week New York 2017
Suggested Highlights

Experience the vibrant energy of Asia Week New York 2017 at the Asia Society. This year's event features a diverse array of cultural performances, exhibitions, and lectures. Highlights include a traditional Japanese tea ceremony, a contemporary dance performance, and a lecture on the impact of globalization on Asian art. The event is open to all and is a must-see for anyone interested in Asian culture.

This traditional Chinese ink wash painting, known as a 'shanshui' painting, depicts a serene landscape with misty mountains, a winding river, and a small boat. The use of ink and wash creates a sense of depth and atmosphere, characteristic of classical Chinese art.

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.

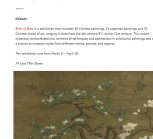

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.

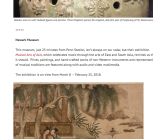

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.

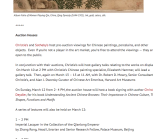

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.

This photograph shows a traditional Chinese building with a tiled roof, possibly a temple or palace. The architecture is characterized by its intricate details and the use of traditional materials, reflecting the rich cultural heritage of China.